VINCENNES, Nov. 23.-A very peculiar legal case has just been decided in the Knox Circuit Court by Judge Franklin, judge pro tem. H divided the money at issue equally between the claimants. This singular case was as to the heirship of a $3,000 insurance policy, held by Joel B. King at the time of his death in the or der of the Royal Arcanum. The widow, a di vorced wife, laid claim to the money, and the guardian of the only son also insisted on receiving the money for his ward. King had the policy made payable to his wife death. He afterward was vorced from the woman, but policy was never changed, it being still payable to his wife at the time of his death last Janua-Now, the courts had previously decided by the divorce suit that he had no wife, and yet at his death the divorced wife claimed the insurance money, as the policy made it payable to ber. Laura King. Of course the son was an immediate heir, and the claim of the guardian could not be ignored. The order of the Royal Arcanum was ready to pay the money as soon as it was legally decided who should receive the same. As already stated, the court gave an equal part to each of the claimants.

COMPETITION IN CHURCHES.

Interesting Debate in the Episcopal Church Congress on an Important Topic.

BUFFALO, Nov. 23 .- At this morning's ses sion of the Episcopal Church Congress the topic was, "What Principle Should Govern Church Extension in Our Country in Fields Already Occupied by Others?" The Rev. T. R. Harris, D. D., of New York city, spoke of the demoralizing effect upon a community of having a number of Protestant churches where one or two would be amply sufficient. This competition in Christianity was ruinous, and what was needed was co-operation. The term "parity of the churches" was as much abused as is the assertion that all men are born free and equal. He did not accept the idea of parity of all churches. On the contrary, he considered the Episcopal Church the best and highest type of church. He looked forward to the time when expediency would give way to principle, and while the church fully recognized work done by others, it would not be satisfied until it had reached every hamiet of the Nation.

Rev. E. B. Bogge, D. D., of Newark, N. J. said a careful survey of the whole field should be made before new enterprises are begun. Each bishop should have at his command a few good men whom he could send here and there when services were needed, no matter whether that particular piece of territory were occupied

Rev. W. W. McVicker, D. D., of Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia, said the question was how the Protestant Episcopal Church could be extended in places already occupied by other church bodies. It was a matter of principle all the way through. In this country it was competition in business and politics, and sadly, or gladly, as it might be called, competition in religion. Not long ago the speaker remembered leaning over the bed of a dying man who said: "The Roman Catholics tell me one thing; the Bluffton, has disappeared, leaving an overdrawn Methodists, another; the Presbyterians, something else, and now you tell me to do so and so. For God's sake what will I do? What will I do!" Bishop Hugh Miller Thompson, of Mississippi, said the average American citizen thought he had a perfect right to make a church or preacher, just the same as he had a right to make a State. Man cannot make faiths, and he cannot make churches, nor creeds. If an American

> Americans, thought they had a right to. Again, if an American does not like his preacher he is liable to go home and start preaching himself. Rev. Mott Williams, of Detroit, deprecated the idea of having "Piety Hill" in every city. By that he meant a favored spot where there are only a few people and where all large churches are built, while on the other hand a mean little seven-by-nine pine box would be erected out among the densely-populated parts of a city. The first extension of the church should be along the line of least resistance, but because a lot of other churches were located in a town was not any reason why the Protestant Episcopal Church should keep out. Roy. Ethelbert E. Talbott, D. D., bishop of Idaho and Wyoming, after speaking of arguments against apostolic succession that have been brought up in various bodies, said that members of the Protestant Episcopal Church should preach the gospel as they had received

Murdered by a Supposed Idiot. RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 23.-About 5 A. M. yesterday, near Hartford, Perquimans county, a murder was committed by a man named Henry Lowe, who ordinarily was considered an idiot, but had occasionally had paroxysms of violent mania. On election day he applied to vote, but was rejected because he had not registered, which greatly affected him. He was living with Mr. Matt Wood, of Perquimans county, and yesterday morning, just before day, he knocked at the bedroom door of Mr. Wood, and being refused admittance, fired through the door, the ball striking Mr. Wood in the face. He then burst in the door and fired another shot at Mr. Wood, inflicting a fatal wound in the breast, from which Mr. Wood died immediately. Lowe then turned upon his brother, who had come in, and fired at him, striking and breaking his arm. He then sought Mrs. Wood, who escaped from a window with her children. Two neighbors came in, aroused by the commotion, and met Lowe in the yard with his pistol, which was empty. When he saw them he commenced to run, but upon being halted and warned of his danger, and a rifle presented, he stopped and was arrested. He was then taken to jail.

Dempsey Wants Nothing but Fight.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. - Jack Dempsey's friends are worked up about Charley Mitchell's chal-lenge, from Philadelphia, to spar the Nonpareil for $1,000 and a portion of the gate money, and if Dempsey stands up before him for eight rounds, to fight him to a finish in the ring for a big stake. They say the sparring proposition cannot be entertained. They want a fight to a finish, and nothing else. "Soap" McAlpine said that he would arrange the preliminaries for a fight between Mitchell and Dempsey, and that Gus Tuttle would find the stakes. "But we will have nothing but a fight to the finish," said McAlpine, "and it may be either under the London or the Queensberry rules. It may be either with skin-tight gloves or the bare knuckles, but it must be to a finish. We will also insist that the stake be $5,000. Dempsey will not go in for the $1,000 business proposed by Mitchell. When Charley says $5,000 or $10,000, we will talk with him. He may try to get out of this by sticking to the proposal to spar Dempsey first. Now, the American public don't want sparring. Sparring is one thing, and fighting is another. . We will have no hippodrome or fake; Dempsey means business."

After asking subscriptions to defend the supposed dynamiters. Hronek, Chleboun and Sevic. whose trial is to begin Monday, the circular says: "Notwithstanding it [the law] has murdered a number of our brethren, this capitalistic beast thirsts for more blood and apparently will not be satisfied until it gets it. Workingmen of Chicago cannot tell nowadays what will happen Any day they are liable to be taken away from their breakfast-tables, torn from their families and locked up in jail on account of some trivial complaint from capital."

The paper goes on to say that capital must be crushed, and claims that the only way to do it is for the workingmen to organize and fight for their rights. The circular is printed in German and Bohemian, and signed by Fritz Benthin on behalf of the newly organized Arbeiter Rechts Schutzverein.

Baby Slain by Its Uncle. ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 23. - Albert Shultz, aged fifteen years, returned this evening from a hunting expedition, and after entering his home proceeded up-stairs to put away his gun. A prattling boy baby, eight months old, occupied a bammock near the stairway, and in a moment of thoughtlessness Shultz pointed the gun at the baby and pulled the trigger. The load knocked half of the infant's head off. The flesh and brains literally covered the wall opposite. The boy had been in the habit of snapping the gun, when unloaded, to amuse the baby, and, contrary to his usual custom when returning from a hunt, forgot to discharge the gun. TO BOYCOTT LOYAL NORTHERNERS. Result of a Movement to Make the Carrying of the Rebel Flag Punishable.

Richmond (Va.) Special: A singular movement is foreshadowed here to-day. It seems to have been given vitality by the appearance of a telegram from the Pittsburg, Pa., Times, saying: "A number of men well known in this city as business and professional men, some of whom served in the Union army during the war, met to enter a protest against the flaunting of rebel flags, which has of late become so common. A bill was prepared to be presented at the next session of Congress making it a misdemeanor, punishable by a heavy fine and imprisonment of one to three years, to display a confederate flag in parades or an other public ocaasions." In this evening's Richmond State a call is 16sued by a country merchant addressed to the patriotic merchants and consumers of the South requesting them to "ponder well this action of leading business men of Pittsburg, and to make a solemn vow that they will henceforward buy nothing from the city of Pittsburg (or indeed from the State of Pennsylvania), where such a spirit of persecution prevails. Let them buy from some Democratic State or town, or, better still at home. Let them buy their iron in Birmingham, their cotton or woolen goods from Georgia, etc. So did our forefathers in 1775; and we can only hope to touch the sensibilities and arouse the sympathies of these enemies in our sufferings and awaken an interest in our dire necessities by tapping their pockets. Touch them there and they will listen to rea-

These supporters of the bloody shirt party give thousands of dollars to sid in the election of those who have put their countenances to the worst and most dangerous element of the South and then expect to be reimbursed from the pockets of Southern men. Let every Southern Democrat give his custom hereafter to those Northern merchants who are the friends, not the enemies, of his people. The Northern merchants who support men like Cleveland and Thurman deserve Southern patronage, not those who delight in seeing the hopes of the best elements in the South disappointed, and who give their votes and money to the party of Blaine, Sherman, Foraker and other foes of our

LINCOLN AND HARRISON.

A Curious Coincidence in the Election of These Two Gentlemen to the Presidency.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Abraham Lincoln, in his first ennyass, was elected to the presidency on Nov. 6, and the session of Congress immediately succeeding that event opened on Dec. 3. This was in 1860. No President has ever been elected on Nov. 6 since 1860, except Benjamin Harrison, because election day in a presidential year has never occurred on Nov. 6 until this year. The first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. in the years following 1860, has come on Nov. 6 in 1866, 1877, 1883 and 1888, and in these years Congress opened on Dec. 3, or will open on that day. But in none of these years, except this one, has a presidential canvass taken place.

The cycle which brings election day on Nov. 6, and the opening of the session of Congress on Dec. 3, in presidential years, is ordinarily completed in twenty-eight years. That is to say, these things occurred in 1804 and 1832, as well as in 1860 and 1888. They would occur again in 1916, and not before, were it not for a disturbing factor which here enters into the problem. Presidential years are generally leap-years, and have 366 days. The year 1900, however, at which date a presidential election takes place, will be an ordinary year of 365 days. In the Gregorian calendar centurial years not divisible by four, without a remainder, after striking off the two right-hand figures are not classed as leap-years, and, therefore, do not get the extra day given to the years preceding or succeeding which are removed from them by four-year intervals. The year 1600 was a leapyear, but neither 1700 nor 1800 was, nor will the year 1900 be entitled to that distinction. The year 2000, though, will be a lesp-year. For this reason the cycle which has just begun will not run on until 1916, but will close twelve years hence. A President will be elected on Nov. 6 and a congressional session will begin on Dec. 3 in the year 1900, and these events will not take place in the same year before that time.
